

I would be extremely disappointed to see the recent Do Not Call List weakened in any way. Finally I am able to be in my own home without being solicited. I can't even buy a loaf of bread in my local supermarket without someone standing outside the door asking for donations for a cause or the store clerk asking me for a dollar for this or that. I cannot go to the movies during the holidays because some movie theaters are allowed to air solicitations for charities in place of trailers and just this week, while at Friendly's having lunch, my own waitress was going table to table soliciting donations for the cause of the week. It's too much! I give monthly to the Christian Children's Fund and several other causes throughout the year. I keep abreast to various organizations and causes and make a donations where I feel I can. I read the newspapers, watch TV and listen to the radio - I GET ENOUGH INFORMATION/SOLICITATIONS through all other media. I do not need charities or organizations invading the little free time I have for myself in the comfort of my own home. People need a place where they are not going to be confronted with advertisements and solicitations. Please do not weaken the do not call list - I have a right to privacy in my own home and solicitations, no matter what hour, no matter what the cause, is an invasion of my privacy. I was proud and relieved that the State of NJ finally took a stand against this and it would be a huge disappointment to see them cave now to the pressure of telemarketers who could use other medias to get their message out.
